

Static HTML Page - Assignment

Description:

The goal of this assignment is to test your knowledge of: HTML, CSS (through Sass) and JavaScript. You need to build a fully responsive html page following the designs & guide below. To make things simpler, we have split the guide into 3 main sections: Hero, Features & Pricing. We will cover the requirements for each section separately. All the assets will be available in a zip file attached to the email with the assignment.

Success criteria:

The main success criteria for the task is to be able to start it in a local host by running the following commands:

- Clone repository
- npm install
- npm start

These 3 steps should be the only thing the reviewer should do in order to start the page. Without this criteria completed, we will still review the code, but the task will most likely be labelled as unsuccessful.

For the responsiveness you can use any standard breakpoints you want - we will not judge you based on the breakpoints.

You can use colours, font, margins, sizes arbitrarily - we will not judge that.

Hero:

The hero section has 3 main elements:

Header - which is sticky as you scroll down.

Main text & Button - with pills which can be selected (see one screenshot)

Main image

The section should be responsive for Mobile & Tablet as the elements and the layout should adapt like in the screenshots. The hamburger menu (top right) on Mobile & Tablet does not need to be clickable.

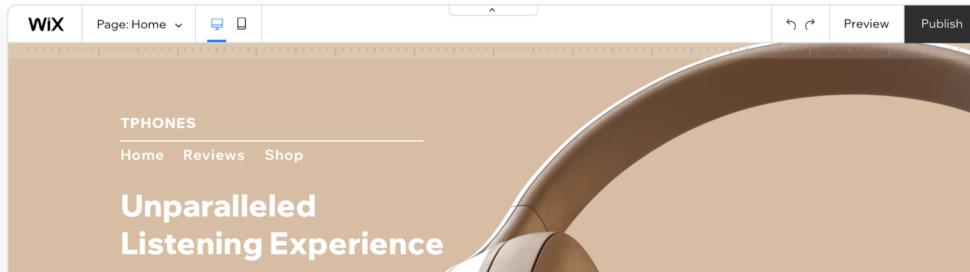

The screenshot shows the Moneybox website's hero section. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the Moneybox logo, Contact Sales, Login, and a Get Started button. Below the navigation is a large, bold header: "Find the best business partnerships". A sub-header asks, "What kind of partnerships are you looking for?". Below this are several filter options represented as colored squares with text: Project Management (red), Marketing (yellow), CRM and Sales (blue), Creative and Design (green), Software Development (purple), Task Management (light blue), Construction (light green), HR and Recruitment (orange), IT (light purple), and 200+ Solutions (pink). At the bottom of the hero section is a "Get Started >" button. Below the hero section, the WIX editor interface is visible, showing a preview of a mobile device displaying the "TPHONES" website. The website features a brown background with a large image of a phone. The header includes "WIX", "Page: Home", and a dropdown menu. The main content area has a dark brown header with the text "TPHONES" and a navigation bar with "Home", "Reviews", and "Shop". Below this is a white section with the text "Unparalleled Listening Experience". The WIX editor toolbar at the top includes icons for back, forward, preview, and publish.

Pricing:

The pricing section has the goal to compare the price for 3 plans.

The key requirement for this section is to implement a JavaScript logic to display the price based on the location of the user.

For example:

User is in European Union -> show price in EUR

User is in United Kingdom -> show price in GBP

User is anywhere else in the world -> show price in USD

There is no need for conversion of the price. It is enough to change the currency sign. Ex. we would have $10 and £10.
